PPCT Course Description:

This is a 32hr Basic Certification Pressure Point Control Tactics (PPCT) course – <http://www.ppct.us>.

The Pressure Point Control Tactics (PPCT) course is internationally recognized because of its unique system design approach as one of the first subject control systems to adopt tactical, legal, and medical research. This four day course is broken down into key blocks of instruction, controlling low level resistance with finger tip touch pressure to nerve pressure points and controlling high level resistance through a defensive counter strike and baton which creates motor dysfunctions and controlled stuns. All of the techniques within the system have been tactically, legally, and medically researched making it defensible in court. The application of these techniques to an individual who is demonstrating passive or defensive resistance is highly effective regardless the size or strength level of the officer. The course can also be taken as separate components as required. Note: All instructors are also as a minimum certified in first aid and CPR.

Course Topics:

Survival Learning Research: This block of instruction examines research from educational psychology, motor learning science and neurobiology, and applies the research to the design of Use of Force systems. This instruction explains why simple gross motor skills and systems with few techniques are more compatible to Use of Force training.

PPCT Control Principles: The foundation of the PPCT training systems is based upon a series of training principles. These blocks of instruction examine the PPCT Force Continuum, principles of control, handcuffing, survival reaction time and tactical positioning.

Pressure Point Control Tactics: The core of this program effectively teaches Law Enforcement Officers how to control subjects by applying as little as 2 pounds of finger touch pressure to selected pressure points on the head and neck. The application of these pressure points is to control low level resistance.

Defensive Counterstrikes: This block of instruction teaches reflexive reaction (blocks, hand strikes and kicks) to a physical attack when impact weapons or firearms are not appropriate.

PPCT Impact Weapon System: This block of instruction can be deployed with a traditional straight baton, riot baton or a collapsible/telescoping baton. This effective system employs the use of nerve motor points as targets instead of joints and bones which decreases the potential of creating connective tissue damage and bone fractures.
